Helphire appoints Group Repair and Engineering Manager

Helphire Group plc announces the appointment of Graham Barley, formerly Repair Network Manager for Albany Assistance Limited, to the post of Group Repair and Engineering Manager.

Reporting to Lesley Jackson, Head of Partner Relations and Supply Chain Management, the appointment demonstrates an extension to Graham's previous responsibilities.

"Key to this role will be the management of requirements arising from moving the Group's current operational business platform to a single system, which in turn will create the environment for a single repair network. In turn this will ensure that customers continue to experience a first class repair service, as a result of the Group's ability to leverage commercial arrangements and service proposition," advised Lesley. "Graham will also work closely with the Group's Automotive Sales Team, based out of the Company's Northwich offices."
